Mayor Bob English offered the group a give-or-take offer of $10,000 for the deal, and pointed out the work needed on the building, including a major expense on the roof. The Lodge members (Billy Sanders was spokesman) agreed with the condition of the building but stated they didn't want the building, and offered instead to sell their half for $10,000 and an acre of land somewhere in the city for construction of a new Lodge building. After some discussion, the Council unanimously passed a motion to accept the deal and gave English authority to meet with the Lodge and locate an acre of city-owned land suitable for the new building. The Masonic Lodge will remain in the upstairs of the building until their new

Six people appeared at the Council meeting to discuss the recently-passed dog leash law. Two of these spoke out against the law, one asked some questions, and three ladies listened but didn't speak out publicly. Dr. Phillip Hamm opened the discussion after Mayor English pointed out the proposed law had been given ample publicity building is finished, and will pay refit if the construction takes longer than one year from the date the deal is finalized.

Hamm urged the Council to enforce the present rabies law before trying to pass additional laws. He said that if the present law were enforced, it would eliminate most of the problems. He said he felt all dog owners were being punished because a few dogs run out at folks who jog. He also questioned figures presented to the Council that 31 people had been bitten. Hamm said he felt some of these were from rural English said the response had been overwhelmingly in favor of the leash law from the citizens of Elba. Councilman Charles Kennett noted the law had not been passed lightly, and he had had people discussing it with him for the past year and a half.

Mr. John Bullard spoke to the Council and said he had just come to see what the Council had to say about the matter. He pointed out he had never chained his dogs and had never had any

Harry Boswell said he felt the Council was penalizing those who stay in their own yard and not show off up and down the street. He said the Council was going to hear a lot more of this and "we are not going to let it stop

James Weeks told the Council the charge of $15 per machine was unfair

The Elba City Council purchased for Food Service as they only had their two pickup trucks, ha'f the old city hall and heard complaints of the previously passed leash law. They also compromised with James Weeks of Food Service as they only had their machines inside the plants they served, and part of the profits went to the company's special funds. He explained that the additional machines needed to Service in Opp over the charges for the firm's vending machines presently at Dorsey Trailers, Kleinert's and at the Service. He pointed out that it would local hospital. The Council routinely signed into law previously-approved cost over $700 for them to buy the machine licenses, and this was higher increases in the garbage and sewage than Dothan at $500. POOR ORIGINAL

While we are moaning about the hard times, high taxes, cold weather, etc., we should be able to get some satisfaction out of the fact Alabama taxpayers are at the bottom of the ladder when it comes to the percent of our income we pay in taxes. . that includes our federal, state and local taxes added up and compared with those of taxpayers in other states! Studies indicate we kinda hit it hard on sales taxes, but skate home free on property taxes, and the combined figures show us in at my home. Johnny wanted good shape and believe it or not, the same studies show the South with the highest standard of living in the nation.

The above figures are not very impressive to folks who are having to borrow money these days with the prime interest rate jumping to 181/2 % Tuesday, and with bankers privately expecting it to reach 20% in the next few weeks. This prime rate didn't bother us country folks a few years back, but during the last year or so it has become more and more important to us as banks themselves are more directly involved with loaning and borrowing money that is directly touched by these New York bankers.

The weekly magazine, U.S. News and World Report, published an article this week about the job-hunting of Democratic appointees in Washington. According to the story, they are frantically seeking jobs, and this means they are spending a large part of every day calling folks and mailing resumes (typed on government time with government equipment, no doubt). When we think of 6,000 people doing ... chauffeurs get $19,000, and many of those getting the ax earn over $50,000. . . . we are spending a bunch of money and they haven't even started drawing their unemployment.

It is hard to believe that in Italy, one of the largest problems in the earthquake-stricken southern part of the country is looting. Here we have hundreds of thousands of people homeless, hungry, wet and cold; yet some have so little respect for their fellowman that they spend their time stealing rather than helping. If we were ever in the position of sitting on the jury of these folks, they could hang it up because we would vote to give them the maximum punishment.

The pictures on the sports page indicate that the deer hunters are out in force. We didn't need these photos to tell us this, however. When you see these four-wheel drive trucks with dog boxes, two or three heavily-clothed men and women, and mud all over the truck. . . .you can bet the time has arrived and most of them were in the woods long before the sun cracked over the horizon. We urge them to be careful.

In case you haven't heard, Auburn University is hunting a new football coach. Auburn didn't beat Alabama Saturday, and Monday, Barfield officially resigned. He said he had been asked to resign and didn't want to stay where he wasn't wanted. We respect him for the honesty and wish him luck.

Some folks this week are trying to relate the Auburn-Alabama game and the death of the Auburn eagle, but experts assure Johnny to come back and get

The real winner on me that they were there the dishwashing was Heddy, who, in theory, will get off a gathering the pecans for the whole week without washing a dish. . . and that would have been true regardless of the winner of the ball game.

BY: KRIS SCARBOROUGH Food poisoning should be an obsolete sickness, with present Government regulations and controls. However, it still happens, and many people suffer from food poisoning every year. It is caused by tainted food or by eating a poisonous substance. Sometimes large numbers of people, who have eaten the same food at a picnic or other large gatherings, are infected. The treatment for food poisoning is to get the poisonous material out of the system by vomiting or by use of a stomach pump. Act as soon as possible in the case of food poisoning-get the help of a physician as soon as possible.

SPORTS

PRESSBOX By: Ricky Mularz

Sports Editor

I got back from a week's vacation on Tuesday, so I don't really know that much about the local basketball action for last week. As a matter of fact, I don't know much about any local sports that happened while I was gone. Oh well, I'll try to dig up something.

I heard before I left that Elba's Don Horstead had committed to Alabama, and I'm sure all the Crimson Tide fans are happy. Don had an outstanding three-year career with the Tigers, rushing for over 4,000 yards and scoring over 50 touchdowns, and I'm sure he has the ability to see a lot of action up at Alabama. Congratulations, Don - we will be looking for ya next year on the tube!

All the state is talking about Auburn's efforts to land Georgia's Coach Vince Dooley, and the large five-year contract estimated to be worth a cool $1 million! In Monday's Atlanta Constitution, there was a front-page article about Dooley that insisted money was no object. According to the salary, television contracts, a salary as a director of a bank, a free house and free cars. Also, a Georgia banker stated the school could beat any offer Auburn made. The story also quoted a source as saying Dooley had already taken the job at BY: GREG BRUNSON Auburn and would resign on Wednesday, December 3. I guess if the story is true, we'll know by today just what is 22. Kinston High School held

This doesn't have anything to do with sports, but in the After a delicious buffet-Atlanta newspaper was an article about violence on style meal, Principal R.L. television, and it rated the most violent shows. As expected, Cain opened the evening's the list included the Dukes of Hazzard and The Incredible program. He started by Hulk, but the top-rated show was a shocker - The Bugs Bunny & Roadrunner Show! I'll have to get up early Saturday and see this "violent" program for myself!
